

Comparison - Data Model

MongoDB:

- Document-based model with collections
- Documents can have varying structures and fields
  - No need for predefined schema

SQL:

- Table-based model with rows and columns
- Fixed schema, requiring predefined structure and data types
  - Relationships can be established using foreign keys